But for the roaring farce introduced in the second act by the Braves, which resulted in the banishment of Nehf. Herzog and Maranville, the game would have been rather tame, for the only sensational features in addition to the burleanue by the visitors.

Brack Herzog reached first on a scratch and then attempted to steal second. He was folled by M. Gonzales of Cuba and L. Doyle of Ireland. Mr. Herzog. in a quiet way, attempted to impeach the correctness of the decision of Mr. Quigley in declaring an out, but Doyle scoffed at the very idea. WO weeks have wrought a remarkable change in the destinies of the Giants. It seems only the other day that the chances of the New York club failed to develop any respect or rouse pennant enthusiasm. But this morning finds the Glants looming up as the one best bet in the major leagues, and for this we do not know whether the fans ought to thank the fates or John McGraw. Perhaps it was a combination of both. The Giants went into the race with what looked like the third worst pitchng staff in the league. The Cubs were regarded as possessing a monopoly of pitching effectives, with the Brooklyns second. Now we find New York cooming along with as fine a lot of pitchers as any team in the circuit, and with chances that before many more days pass the staff will develop further and take its place as an undisputed first.

Ferdle Schupp, who had been relegated to the discards, flashed a prising return to form in the morning game last Friday and pitched as fine a game as anybody wanted to see. Schupp surprised not only McGraw. his teammates and the Superbas but was not a bit backward about admitting that he had surprised himself. He is shy about predicting that he has found himself at last—he has been disappointed so often—but McGraw feels that with a little nursing the Louisville left hander will regain his place as a was a mighty sorrowful series for the Senators, who prior to yesterday lost eleven games in a row. In the West the Yankees could not find the ball when hits meant runs, but in the capital they suddenly got to hitting hard and timely, and backed up their fine pitching the way it should have been supported. The club has the players, it has the pitchers, most of whom have not yet struck their stride. If it only can keep hitting it will make a noise like a real pennant contender.

Some Facts That Make Dempsey the Popular Choice.

Jess Willard will begin work at Toledo within a few days and then opular discussion of the big fight will become more general and more ntense. Just now this discussion appears to run to extremes. Most of the men in the street hold to the opinion, nurtured no doubt by the ma- Vick on each of Sam's four visits to the jority of the public prints, that Dempsey will knock out the champion very second, the Giants proceeded to take lib-ertles with the pitching of Arthur Nehf early in the contest. Somehow or other four out of five men interested in boxing will tell you that the fight will end that way. The fifth man will either hit the other extreme, and tell you that Dempsey cannot pos-sibly reach Willard, or he will throw cold water on the whole proposition. will either hit the other extreme, and tell you that Dempsey cannot possibly reach Willard, or he will throw cold water on the whole proposition. But nobody will tell you that Willard will beat Dempsey to a pulp and knock him out with a clean punch. That Willard may stop his man by wearing him down is conceded, but few disputants will say that the champion has a punch that will do the work before the battle gets beyond the seventh round. This lack of respect for Willard's straight hitting power seventh round. This lack of respect for Willard's straight hitting power may be founded on fact, but we are inclined to hold otherwise.

Popular opinion picks Dempsey because popular sympathy runs that way. Willard lacks color-he is the most colorless champion the heavy weight class yet has had and in this match he is suffering from being overshadowed by a sensation. Willard has been passive and his challenger has been most active, knocking men out in the first and second round. Another factor in the tide toward Dempsey is this: If Willard wins he may sit back for several years more and finally quit without another Mr. Nehf could not believe his ears fight. If Dempsey wins we will see some action in the class.

By GEORGE B. UNDERWOOD.

When Grogan went up in the blast and Pat Murphy was sent to break the news gently to the widow, Pat did so news gently to the widow, Pat did so with much eciat. "Oh, Mrs. Grogan," chirped Pat, "you know your Mike? A grand man he was! Well," he continued, holding up a tattered bit of cloth, "here's all there is left of him!"

Broaking the news just as gently to the Brooklyn fans, the dear old Dodgers in the formal process. in their farewell appearance at Ebbets Field yesterday, after four times tieing the score on the Phillies, finally lost out in the eighteenth inning. Philadelphia 10, Brooklyn 9. The loss of the baseball marathon cost Brooklyn second place. Almost every time the Dodgers and Phillies have met this season there have been strange doings. A month ago in Philadelphia the teams fought a twenty two run lead. The Dodgers tied it up the Phillies scored six runs in the first frame and another in the second, only to have the Dodgers bag half a dozen tailies in the third, tie the score in the fourth and win out, 11 to 2 Versions. Wheat doubled in the fourth, the score in the fourth and win out, 11 to 2 Versions. fourth and win out, 11 to 9. Yesterday they hammered the bail and spilled errors all over Flatbush, each team apparently winning and losing half a dozen times.

Adams singled in the seventh and got home on Williams's homer over the right field wall. Olson appeared to have

The game furnished a bacchanalia of base hits and an orgy of errors. The contest was both Homeric and Falstaffthese frames. Huggins used pinch hitters and two new pitchers in the last three limings and the Senators did no hitting against either Nelson or Mogridge.
